WEST LIBERTY, MORGAN COUNTY, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY, JULY 13, 1933

WHOLE NUMBER 1189

WILL DO A GOOD JOB

To the Voters of Morgan county:
You no doubt read of my serious accident in which my horse got scared at the train and reared up and fell on me, causing serious injuries and making it impossible for me to get out and campaign. I am just now barely able to be out and it will be a week or ten days before I can begin further active campaign, but I desire to ask my friends to continue my fight as I am assured of victory at the primary.
I have told you that I would discuss the issues with you from time to time and now that the salaries of the officers have been set it would not be possible to change the salary, but will say that I will see to it that the rooms and cells of the jail are painted and papered and that the toilets are put in more sanitary condition and that I will do this from my own and not the county's money. I know that you will agree with me that this property is very hard to keep in a proper sanitary condition, but I will do it.
I will further state that I have no deputies and that the extra money that I would have to pay out for deputies will also be used for the benefit of the property and the care of the persons unfortunates enough to become prisoners should I be nominated and elected as your jailer.
Respectfully submitted,
EDWARD TAULBEE

FEARS (?) COURT ACTION

Voicing fears from which editors of the secular press have refrained, "The Christian Century," undenominational religious journal, asserts editorially in a recent issue that the nation must face a national crisis when the Roosevelt program that Congress enacted into law is passed upon by the U. S. Supreme Court.

"Mr. Roosevelt's policy, having passed Congress, must now be subjected to review of the U. S. Supreme Court, where there is reason to fear that much of it may be declared unconstitutional. 'Should this occur,' warns The Christian Century, 'should the court veto the program which the executive and legislative branches of the government have agreed is necessary for national recovery, there will follow a crisis in the national government which may easily exceed in intensity and far-reaching effect of that which followed the rendering of the Dred Scott decision.'

"Some mill may refuse to accept 40 hours as the maximum weekly working week for its employees, or $25 as the minimum weekly wage, or whatever the standard of the trade association establishes with government approval. The government will then step in and either debar the goods produced in that mill from interstate commerce, or refuse an operating license to the mill, or both. The mill will defy the government. It will secure an injunction suspending the operation of the law. And in some such fashion the issue will be put up to the Supreme Court.

"What will happen then? No one can say with certainty, of course, but it is just as well to face the fact that, in the light of precedent, there is reason to fear that the Supreme Court will knock out the law." Pointing out that the Constitution is a product of a political situation in which its authors were intent upon maintaining unimpaired state control over industry and that the Constitution embodies the inviolate rights of private property. The Christian Century sees the only hope for saving the Roosevelt program in the court's recognition of a national emergency.

Wells' Family Radio Program

Claude Wells with his family string orchestra will give the radio program for the Sandy Valley Grocery Company over station WSAZ from 1:30 to 2:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time on Saturday, July 22. On this program Mr. Wells will play the violin made by himself from selected wood over 100 years old. Mr. Wells was a year in making this instrument and finds that it makes the kind of music he had in mind during its construction. The program will be by the following personnel: Claude Wells, violin; Louise Wells mandolin; Kenneth Wells, guitar; Arthur Potts Wells, guitar. Selections will be old time favorites.

KENTUCKY'S FLOATING DEBT

The outstanding interest-bearing warrants of the State of Kentucky increased $3,194,992.90 during the last fiscal year, ending June 30. Warrants issued against the general expenditure fund now total $15,197,005.42. There are $1,868,572.11 against the state road fund and $538.50 against the common school fund.

Warrants against the last two funds sell at par, because they are quickly redeemed. In fact, the statement shows $224,824.57 in the common school fund and $1,000,589.93 in the road fund. The warrants on these two funds are generally accepted at par value.

In the general expenditure fund, however, there is only $385,287.78 leaving nearly fifteen million in outstanding warrants drawing 5 per cent interest. These warrants are now sold at a discount of 5 to 20 per cent.

It is easy to see what a burden around the neck of Kentucky these latter form. Aside from the nearly $750,000 in annual interest required to carry them, there is the fact that those who sell to the state must allow for the discount they must make in the price they ask for material or services.

In view of this condition the anxiety of the administration to secure the revenue obtainable from the sale of beer is easily understood. A special session to levy a state tax on the beverage will very probably be called. Most legislators have agreed to come to Frankfort for actual expenses. It is not yet decided whether or not this special session will be asked to determine the question of giving the voters a chance to act upon the eighteenth amendment repeal proposition.

The next regular General Assembly will have before it the difficult task of reducing state expenses so as to begin systematic amortization of the general expenditure fund warrants. It is obvious to any citizen that this costly floating debt should not be allowed to continue its growth. It is partly an inheritance from former administrations. Previous legislators have avoided the issue with astonishing lack of foresight.

Those who expect to go to Frankfort next January should make up their minds that the state's floating debt is one of the most important problems it will be called upon to solve. Good business management can solve it and provide for its gradual reduction.—Ashland Independent.

COST OF WET REVENUE

Is the American nation in such desperate financial straits that it must embark upon a program inherently harmful for the sake of the revenue to be raised by such a policy? Would any self-respecting citizen have our Government legalize public lotteries, traffic in heroin and other deadly drugs, or interstate white slavery, on the grounds that they could be heavily taxed? With liquor, as with other vice-forming habits, should not America take a fearless stand on the side of public morality?

Repealers of the Eighteenth Amendment have laid special stress on the revenue to be procured from the legalized sale of intoxicants. They have promised the people remission of taxes, multiplication of jobs, reduction of debts and new highs in the circulation of cash as the first of "the orderly sale of liquor." Orderly sale of liquor is something the world has never known since Bacchus was enthroned among the gods of the pagans. But let us suppose that it could be. What then? Even if the whole cost of government could be paid by a tax on intoxicants, what profit would it bring to the man in the street? Who paid the liquor taxes in the days before prohibition? It is true that distillers, brewers and saloon keepers wrote the checks, but who supplied the money to make these checks good? The individual drinker paid every penny of the liquor taxes, at what cost all who know America in pre-prohibition days remember only too well. Is such budget balancing desirable?—Los Angeles Times.

Schools to Open

Morgan county grade schools will open Monday, July 17. Superintendent Jas. W. Davis has arranged for an interesting Teachers' Conference to be held on Thursday and Friday of the first week of school at West Liberty. Prof. O. J. Jones of the State Department of Education will discuss with the teachers problems pertaining to our public schools at the Friday morning session.

A School Catechism

1. Does the United States Constitution provide for public schools?
No. The matter of public schools is left to the states.

2. Do all of the states maintain public schools?
Yes, they do now, but have not from the beginning.

3. How long did Kentucky carry on without public schools?
For nearly fifty years we had no public schools.

4. Were there private schools then?
Yes, there were many private schools.

5. Why did we change to public schools?
To give all the children some schooling rather than a few of them all of it.

6. How many years of school training does a pupil get?
Eight in elementary, four in secondary, four or more in college.

7. Why are schools called public schools?
They are maintained by the public for the public.

8. Who are the public that own these schools?
No. The people, are the state. The schools belong to the state.

9. Don't the schools belong to the boards of education?
No. Each public school belongs to the state.

10. Who has title to the school property in each home district?
The board of education as trustees for the state.

11. Why are trustees, board members and teachers state officers?
They are agents of the state for the schools in their districts.

12. Are people in other districts concerned with the schools in our district?
Yes. The entire state carries on each of these schools.

13. Why do we have our school districts?
To help the state carry on good schools in each community.

14. Are we concerned with schools in other districts?
Yes. We help provide schools, roads, courts, prisons and hospitals through out the state.

15. Could we (the state) carry on our schools without school districts?
Yes, but they are convenient when strong and well administered.

16. What is necessary for a good strong school district?
It must have enough pupils to carry on a well balanced school.

17. How many pupils are needed?
There should be many hundred pupils and many in high school.

18. Why many?
For social contacts and varied courses, academic, vocational, cultural.

19. What else is necessary for a good strong school district?
It must have tax resources and a strong supporting citizenship.

20. Have we any one-teacher school districts in Kentucky?
No. Most county districts have some one-teacher subdistricts.

21. Do all counties have subdistricts?
No, but most counties do. Our laws authorize them.

22. What kinds of subdistricts are there?
Consolidated, regular and emergency.

23. What is a consolidated school?
It has a school of several teachers and pupil transportation.

24. What is a regular subdistrict?
It has one or more small schools, generally no transportation.

25. What is an emergency subdistrict?
It has fewer than fifty pupils and operates temporarily on State permit.

26. Is the number of subdistricts increasing?
The number is decreasing with consolidation.

27. Is the number of school districts changing?
Some independent districts merge with their county districts.

28. What are independent districts?
Graded districts and city districts are independent.

29. Why are they called independent districts?
They are withdrawn from their county school systems.

30. How many county school districts have we?
120. Each county is one, not including independent districts.

31. How many independent districts have we?
62 city districts and 182 graded districts. We have 305 districts.

32. Does each district have a board of education (trustees)?
Yes. Five have two each, white and colored.

33. Should we have more districts, or fewer?
Fewer, for better schools and equality of opportunity.

34. Should our county be consolidated into one school?
No. A number of schools should be carried on.

35. Should our county be merged into one district?
That may be desirable.

36. In that case, how many boards of education would we have?
One board of education for the county.

37. Doesn't each town need a separate board of education and superintendent?
Just as much as it needs a separate fiscal court and county judge.

38. Why is part of a county made into independent districts?
To give differences in school terms, tax rates, and levels of opportunity.

39. Is it to our advantage to make these differences?
No, it is unfair.

40. Then why do we keep on doing it?
Just because we are used to it.

41. What is the largest school district in Kentucky?
Louisville city district has more pupils than twenty-five little counties including their ten city and thirty-two graded districts.

42. What is the largest district in any state?
New York city has more than twice as many pupils as Kentucky with her 305 districts.

43. How long a term of school do these large districts have?
Ten months.

44. Ought all districts to have the same length of term?
We Kentuckians should provide equal, even justice in all our courts, and equal school opportunity for all our children.

45. Do we provide these things by state tax or county tax?
We pay for our highways and state courts by state tax.

46. How do we pay for our schools?
We pay a small part by state tax and leave the rest to local tax.

47. Does this give all the children good schools and equal chance?
No. We discriminate in favor of some and against others.

48. What children do we discriminate against?
Those in the poorer sections and in rural county districts.

49. How can we deal fairly with the poorer sections?
Provide a standard term for all, paying teachers' salaries from the State Treasury.

50. How can we deal fairly with the rural county districts?
By having the same laws for all districts, giving our county boards the same powers we give our city boards.—L. N. Taylor, State School Agent.

A Friendly Reception

The Missionary Society gave Mr. and Mrs. James Perry a variety shower Thursday afternoon, June 29, 1933.

The following attended or sent gifts: Mesdames Earl Price, T. H. and W. A. Caskey, Henry Cole, C. E. Gabbard, Ada Cochran, D. H. Perry, Jim Franklin, H. C. Rose Jr., C. P. Henry, W. G. Ratliff, D. R. Keeton, H. S. Trayner, A. P. Gullett, John Carter, I. J. Scudder, J. P. Oney, Malcom Allen, and Miss Ethel Mae Keeton.

There was truly a shower of beautiful and useful gifts.

The committee served ice cream and cake. Then, all wished the newly wedded couple much joy and a happy future.

BASEBALL CLUB

The West Liberty Ball Club and fans wish to thank K. J. Bowles, who has been manager of the club and has worked with great interest. The club with Mr. Bowles' help, has been very successful, altho they didn't win first place in the league, the boys have played heads up baseball during the 14 games. The pitching staff has been very strong with Haney and Wooten on the mound, and these boys have certainly pitched good ball. Wyant, the catcher, has worked hard and has kept the boys full of pep.

The club has won 8 games and lost 6 with a standing of third place. Watch for the advertisement for July 16 with Nicholasville, one of the fastest teams in the blue grass. There will be plenty of excitement so don't miss it. Watch the Licking Valley Courier for future games.

STOCKDALE-KEITH

Mr. Woodford Keith and Miss Virginia Stockdale surprised their many friends by slipping away to Versailles the home of the groom's parents in Mt. Sterling. Mr. Keith is the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Keith, and is now in the grocery business with his father. Miss Stockdale is the attractive young daughter of O. Q. Stockdale of Mt. Sterling. The Keith's were formerly of Morgan county. We congratulate them and wish them a happy future.

County Merchants Meeting

An important meeting of the Morgan County Retail Merchants Association is called to meet at 7:30, this evening, July 13, at the American Legion Hall at West Liberty. All county merchants whether enrolled as members or not are invited to be present.

The President of the State Association, C. H. Parsons of Ashland, and the state director, H. H. Wheeler, will be present and address the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Notice to Candidates

* All candidates are required to file with the county clerk on or before July 21 an expense account setting out the amount of money expended in connection with your candidacy to date. This account must be filed whether you have spent any money or not, and failure to do so disqualifies the candidate from assuming the office to which he aspires should he be elected.

MEMORIAL

In memory of dear mother and wife who departed this life one year ago July 7, 1933.

Dear mother how we miss you Since the sound of your voice was stilled:

For you left a vacant place on earth That never can be filled.

You left us in this world to mourn; The parting is hard we know

When we have to say farewell To our loved ones here below.

But we hope to meet you mother In that heavenly home above.

There to join with other loved ones And to praise our Savior's love.

MAKING FARM LOANS

E. D. Holbrook, secretary and treasurer of the Magoffin County Farm Loan Association has had the counties of Morgan, Johnson, and Floyd added to his jurisdiction.

The object of the association is to refinance existing mortgages or obligations and to make new loans on farms according to the terms of acts of the late Congress framed and passed to save farm homes for their owners.

Mr. Holbrook has arranged to be at the County Clerk's office at West Liberty on Thursday of each week to meet farmers and talk over with them their financial problems.

Notice Ex-service Men

A meeting of Holly Coffee Post No. 68 American Legion will be held at Legion Hall Saturday, July 15th, at 1:30 p. m. at which time all ex-service men are urged to be present as there are many subjects pending which require our united support.

The American Legion State Convention is to be held at Owensboro the first part of August and at this meeting arrangements should be made for delegates from our part to attend the State Convention that our interest may be better protected. Let's all attend the meeting Saturday.

COUNTY AGENTS' COLUMN

About the Farm

Can non-acid vegetables, such as string beans, butter beans, corn and greens by the hot pack method. Tomatoes and fruits have a better texture and flavor when canned by the cold-pack method. Can beans, corn and greens immediately after they are picked.

The most profitable enterprise and combinations of enterprises in a given locality and for a given farmer do not change much within a short time. Variations are usually best made by moderate decreases or increases in individual enterprises in accordance with the market prospects.

Do not water the lawn until the grass really needs it, and then give it a good soaking. Then wait a week or 10 days before applying water again. Thorough soaking permits the plant-foods in the soil to go into a solution which the grass roots can use, while a little water does not create this condition and does little or no good.

Old strawberry beds should be made into rows 8 to 10 inches wide and 3 feet apart. Cultivate between the rows and remove weeds. Side-dress the rows with sulphate of ammonia or nitrate of soda at the rate of a pound per 50-foot row or 200 pounds to the acre. Do not get the fertilizer on the plants.

The fact that merchants are selling such products as eggs, potatoes, onions, cabbage, corn and the like into the country indicates that some farmers still are not providing for their own needs. Home-produced products put on the farmer's table, in place of purchased foods, sell for retail prices.

Save Flower Seed

The suggestion that flower lovers save seed from their own garden, in order that they may know what they are planting, is made by N. R. Elliott, landscape specialist at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Seed from both annuals and perennials can be saved with little trouble, he says. To do so not only saves money but the flower grower has seed from plants that he or she knows have given satisfactory bloom. Seed can be saved from the vigorous plants which have developed resistance to unfavorable conditions and become adapted.

Seeds from many of the perennials like columbine and delphinium can be sown in the open in August or early September and they will come up and with a little winter protection, such as a light mulch of branches with a few leaves scattered over them, or a little straw, can be brought through the winter and will furnish some bloom the following year.

If cold frames are available, seeds of many perennials can be sowed in July and the plants transplanted and carried over the winter in the cold frames or even set in the open. Such plants will attain a larger size and give better bloom the following year. Seeds from annuals should be saved and sown the following spring. Keep seeds in containers where there is circulation of air but where rodents and insects cannot get to them. Small glass jars with metal tops in which holes have been made are good containers.

Source of Income

The growing importance of poultry to Kentucky farmers was brought out at a recent ninth annual poultry short course at the University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station at Lexington.

In six counties in which the College of Agriculture has conducted improvement campaigns poultry now provides a third of the total income. These counties are Grayson, Clinton, Wayne, Knox, Lawrence, and Johnson.

Speakers gave special attention to improving the quality of eggs and poultry, in order that better prices might be received. Prof. Berley Winton of the University of Missouri reported on a survey of the New York market, and said farmers in the middle states must give attention to quality if they hope to sell eggs in eastern markets.

H. S. Patterson, farm agent in Grayson county, outlined the work that has been done to make poultry the main source of income in that county. Egg production has been increased and quality improved until poultry products from Grayson county command premium prices.

The course considered phases of practical poultry keeping, including the various steps from hatching to selling. In addition to the many discussions, laboratory practice was given in culling, judging, trap-nesting, selection of breeding stock, etc.

Seventyseven men and women from 33 Kentucky counties and from Indiana and Illinois attended the course.

Poultry Profitable

Poultry was profitable on many Kentucky farms during the first half of the laying year, despite low prices, according to records of farmers co-operating with county agents and the College of Agriculture in demonstrating good practices. Records on 117 flocks, representing principal breeds of the state, showed an average profit of 66 cents per hen for the period of November 1 to May 1.

The average egg production per hen for all flocks was 72 eggs for the six months period. Rhode Island Reds averaged 80½ eggs, and returned a profit of 86 cents per hen. White Plymouth Rocks averaged 65 cents; and White Lezhorns averaged 74 eggs and made an average profit of 56½ cents per bird. Sale of birds for meat is accounted, in part, for variations in profits.

Owners of 254 flocks began to keep records on November 1, and complete records were obtained on 117 flocks for the full six months.

Kentucky Farm Radio Program

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of July 17. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

July 17—Chopped hay is cheaper and safer, Howard Matson, Agricultural market review, E. A. Johnson.

July 18—Preparations for culling, J. E. Humphrey, Curing Burley tobacco, R. A. Hunt.

July 19—Summer management of beef cattle, Wayland Rhoads, Curing fire-cured tobacco, R. A. Hunt.

July 20—Fruit growers' talk, C. O. Eddy, What farm prices have done, O. M. Farrington.

July 21—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

Profit in Strawberries

A group of Fleming county farmers in looking about for something to supplement tobacco as a cash crop, decided to try strawberries. As a result a small acreage was set out in spring of 1932, and in spite of adverse weather conditions and the biggest strawberry crop in the history of the United States the Fleming county berries were marketed at a satisfactory and money making price. The group of owners were well organized and handled all phases of the enterprise in a cooperative manner. Without this system the project would have been impossible. The manager and salesman for the association was J. W. Neal, of this city who has had considerable experience in selling. The grader and clerk was Austin Brinegar, a former student of the Kentucky College of Agriculture. The probable plan is to extend the fruit growers' organization to also include vegetables. —Flemingsburg Times-Democrat.

OUR NEIGHBORS

Foreign governments are no longer abstract conceptions, as was the case in my youth. We see the leaders of the nations pictured daily in the newspapers, we hear their words through the radio, in our homes, we live, in an international respect, much more intensely. We feel how our interests are parallel to those of our neighbor. In international affairs we gradually grow convinced of the value of an old Roman saying: "Your interest is at stake, when the house of your neighbor is on fire." Out of this feeling of personal concern, a feeling of responsibility as an individual as well as a nation. And out of this feeling of responsibility the conviction must grow that we have a task to fulfill, both individually and as a nation.—Dr. J. H. Houdius, president of the Juvenile Education Committee of the Dutch Society for League of Nations and Peace, as reported in De Telegraaf (Amsterdam, Netherlands).

Tredway's Cash Store has announced a special sale with startling prices to celebrate their opening of the rebuilt and remodeled store in the east end of town for Saturday, July 15.

TRUE DEMOCRACIES

There is a middle course between reaction and revolution...Americans still believe that the greatest happiness and the greatest prosperity can be attained by leaving to the individual all possible freedom subject only to restraints against abuse.

In other words, they believe in reform rather than revolution. Those who point triumphantly to the failure of popular government are thinking of Spain, Italy, Balkan countries, Germany and Russia. None of these, before 1914, enjoyed more than the form of popular rule. One at least never had so much as the form.

The true democracies—America, Great Britain and France—have survived. As for the collapse of capital, the possibility of a system of private initiative under public control is at present being demonstrated.—Boston Herald.

SPOTLIGHTS

July 8 the processing tax of 30 cents per bushel will be levied on wheat to raise funds to pay the farmers to raise less wheat. This will add $150,000,000 to the annual bread bill of the United States. If this tax is equally distributed all along the line from grower to consumer, all well and good; it will amount to very little on a loaf of bread, but unless the government sits up nights with a shot gun in either hand, the elevators, millers and Board of Trade gamblers will gobble the extra profit and the eating public will have gotten just another kick in the pants.

Pay of Reconstruction Finance Corporation employees was reduced from $1.25 per day to $1.00 in some localities when it was discovered that the government was preventing farmers from securing necessary labor at a price they could afford to pay. The gross ingratitude of the government employees was evinced when strikes occurred on many of the jobs. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation committee work program is a gratuitous movement of the government to assist the jobless over a rough period and was not intended for anything else. Any man who prefers loafing to temporary work at $1.00 a day should be kicked out of the country.

It has been truly said that one half of the world does not know how the other half lives. On a recent June night, 15,000 homeless women and girls in 700 of our largest cities applied to relief organizations and police stations for lodging and 2000 more were found in hobo camps. Switchmen report that girls with college educations have been discovered bumming their way or freight trains passing through the railroad yards of Nashville, Tenn. This is fact, not a theory. Thousands of homeless girls, drifting. God only knows where; human wreckage floating to hell. The forgotten woman.

Prince Alexis Mdivani broke into the five and ten business with a bang. It is reported that the Prince received a settlement of $250,000 annually for marrying Barbara Hutton of New York, heiress to the Woolworth millions. The marriage ceremony was performed in Paris. We heard a lady remark at breakfast this morning that there was not a man in the world worth that much, not even as a lover let alone as a husband.

The World's Disarmament Conference at Geneva adjourned until October 10, having reached the momentous decision that they "no can do."

It was reported that President Roosevelt would make a personal appeal for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. He should at the same time ask a freckled faced boy if he wants some ice cream.

MERCHANTS TO MEET

Probably the most important meeting that will ever be held by the Kentucky Retail Merchants Association is to be in Frankfort, Monday, July 17th.

This is the annual meeting for the election of officers for the ensuing year, to discuss the National Recovery Act, as applied to retailers and receive a report from the Legislative Committee on the selection of candidates for the State Senate and the Lower House of the Kentucky Legislature in 1934.

The meeting will be opened by Vice-President John R. Sower, of Frankfort, who will introduce President C. H. Parsons, T. E. Kennedy, Mayor of Frankfort, will welcome the members. There will follow a report of the President, an address on the National Recovery Act and an address of the Sales Tax.

In the afternoon there will be a number of addresses on subjects vital to all retail merchants, followed by the report of the nominating committee and the election of officers for the ensuing year. There will also be a report of the Legislative Committee on the standing of the various candidates in the state primary August 5th.

In the evening there will be a banquet at the Capitol Hotel at 6:15 P. M. The principal speaker of the evening is Strickland Gillilan, an outstanding humorist and philosopher.

Music, singing and vaudeville entertainment will be interspersed thru the evening.

After the banquet a steamer has been chartered to take the members for a ride up the beautiful Kentucky river.

There will be no registration fee. All retail merchants in sympathy with the movement of the Association are cordially invited to attend whether they are members or not.

It is expected that the largest crowd ever assembled at a convention in Frankfort will be present and there will be delegations to the meeting from every one of the one hundred and twenty counties in the state.

Games Played on Shipboard

The usual deck games played on shipboard are shuffleboard, bull, quoits, deck tennis and deck golf. A popular game on many liners is betting on wooden horses moved over a section of the deck especially marked off.

RETURNS HOME

Washington, July 3, 1933.—Congressman Fred M. Vinson left today for his home in Ashland, Kentucky. Since adjournment of Congress he has been constantly engaged in the arduous labors attendant upon his membership of the sub-Committee of the Ways and Means Committee, seeking to close the gaps and loop holes in the several tax provisions.

Congressman Vinson sponsored and presented the resolution in the past session of Congress, which authorized and directed appointment of the Committee to plug holes under which many large income tax payers have evaded payment of taxes, and he was appointed on the Committee to undertake this very important work.

The Morgan expose attracted the attention of the whole country, and emphasized the importance of further changes in the law to prevent the wealthy from escaping payment of their proper proportion of taxes. In an effort to accomplish this purpose, Congressman Vinson has been working every day with experts of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation under the Treasury.

Wake Up Your Liver Bile —Without Calomel

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

School to Close

An 8 week's summer school conducted by Professors Winfred L. Carpenter and Evert Nickell will close Friday. This summer school under the Department of Education is the first of its kind ever to be conducted in West Liberty.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gabbard and sons Ned and Bob are at Quicksand for a few days attending a conference of 4-H club leaders.

Miss Kathryn Gevedon of Grassy Creek is in town taking the teachers' examination.

Lynn B. Wells for Circuit Judge, adv.

In the store of success there are no bargain counters.

A man is poor when he makes money at the expense of his character.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lykins, of White Oak, visited relatives here Saturday night.

Mrs. Bal Whitte, of Royalton, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lykins Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Mary Adkins, who had been staying at Carse Dennis', on Spaw Creek, returned home Sunday.

Georgia Mae and Marie Lykins were the Sunday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Turner of Spaw Creek.

Morgan county is entitled to the Circuit Judge during the next term. It will be our own fault if we do not get him.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Hendrix, of Mt. Sterling, spent the week end here with Mrs. Hendrix's parents, L. B. Reed and wife.

D. B. Tyra, of Wolfe county, democratic candidate for State Senator, is making an active campaign and is more and more convinced that he will bag the nomination.

Mr. and Mrs. Bunion Oney, of Wayland, were the Saturday night guests of Mr. Oney's sister, Mrs. Bennie Lykins. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Lykins' son who had been away attending school.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Patrick visited friends and relatives at Ashland and Portsmouth from Monday until Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Patrick attended church at Lacy creek Sunday, and were the dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cox.

A Circuit Judge should have good judgment and an earnest desire to be fair to all. These qualifications are royally exemplified in Lynn B. Wells.

Jim Wells and daughters, Eleanor and Yvonne, of Middletown, Ohio, spent several days here last week with their sister, Mrs. Joe Short, and brothers Lynn B. and Claude Wells.

In renewing his subscription to the Courier this week, Thos. J. Wells of Enid, Oklahoma, says times are not near hard enough for him to try to get along without the home paper.

The County Judge more than any other one man is responsible for the peace, happiness and prosperity of the people of the county. B. T. Morris will promote each of these things among all our people.

Miss Ethel Mae Keeton, president of the Eaworth League, invited the members and their friends to her home on South Main street for a lawn party Tuesday evening. They had a jolly time playing games and served home made candr.

B. T. Morris for County Judge, adv.

Miss Iva Martin, of Salyersville, is visiting Mrs. Roscoe Brong this week.

Jesse Whitte, of Wrigley, was a visitor at the Courier office while in town Saturday.

Miss Juanita Martin, of Lexington spent the week end with Miss Ethel Mae Keeton.

Mrs. C. M. Kesper, who is in the hospital at Louisville, we are glad to report, is improving.

Rev. I. J. Scudder will fill his regular appointment in the M. E. Church Sunday morning and evening.

B. T. Morris was the original advocate of reduced salary of county officials.

Mr. and Mrs. Bronson Gevedon, of Shelbyville, are visiting this week with Mrs. Gevedon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hord.

Mrs. Oscar McKenzie, Miss Ruth and Arnold McKenzie spent Friday with Mrs. McKenzie's mother, Mrs. J. D. Denniston at Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. May and children, Martha Jean and Lowell Mr. and Mrs. Fred Reed and little daughter Betty Lou, all of Salyersville, spent Sunday with their sister, Mrs. D. R. Keeton and family.

Miss Mildred Whitte gave a nice birthday party Thursday afternoon in honor of her little sister, Jean. She entertained them with interesting games and treated them to homemade ice cream and cake.

Miss Ethel Mae Keeton attended the annual Conference last week held at Winchester by the Young People's Division of the M. E. Church South and reports that it was a very interesting and instructive session. She also enjoyed the social program each day.

Miss Margaret M. Brong took her Sunday school class of Junior boys over to Wells Hill Thursday afternoon, was joined by Miss Edna Wells and little nephews and had a delightful picnic. When tired of games, they made a fire and prepared and served their appetizing lunch.

The following attended church services on Wells Hill Saturday evening: Rev. and Mrs. Scudder, Misses Mildred Whitte, Hattie Gibbs, Margaret Brong, Lucile Upp and Lovel Breeding. Dr. Gevedon in his usual impressive manner opened the services and Rev. Scudder delivered an able sermon. There was a fine audience which was a good encouragement to both ministers.

Mrs. D. R. Keeton's mother, Mr. W. L. May and the following sister, and other relatives, all of Salyersville brought well filled baskets and enjoyed the fourth with her and the children, thus having a jolly family reunion: Mrs. E. L. Stevens, Mrs. W. P. Carpenter, Mrs. D. B. Howard, Mrs. J. Fred Reed and little daughter, Betty Lou, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Carpenter and children, Sue Dell and Billy, Mrs. D. H. May and children, Lowell and Martha Jean, and Miss Rose Frances May.

THINGS MONEY WON'T BUY

Mr. Brang once said that the dollar must not be put above the man, but there has always been a tendency in this country to do so. Too many people measure everything by dollars and yet there are many things which money will not buy. Money will not buy health. The poorest negro who lives in a hovel and wears cast off clothes, who has a real appetite, enjoys his food, and has good health, is better off than the millionaire who lives in luxury and ease and yet has no health. Money won't buy reputation. It is built upon the basis of character and not on the basis of what a man is worth. Probably the tendency to love money, which the Bible describes as the root of all evil, is the reason the Savior said, "It is harder for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven than for a camel to go through the eye of a needle." "A good name is more to be desired than riches." Our poorest people are better off in their poverty with a good name and a good reputation than some of the rich men who have been indicted in courts and convicted for doing wrong. "The purest treasure mortal times afford is spotless reputation," and that is often found among people who have no money above that necessary to buy the bare necessities of life.

There are a great many things in the world that man can enjoy without riches. It doesn't cost anything to wander through a beautiful woodland and look up to the giant trees where the birds of the air find places to rest their feet and to build their nests, and to contemplate the picture of silence and beauty that only God has given to man. It doesn't cost anything to saunter along the babbling brook and listen to its music as its waters roll over the pebbly bottom. The man who stands on the mountain top and listens to the whispering pines as the wind creeps from tree to tree and looks out upon the panorama of nature spread at his feet sees a thing that God has given to the poor man as well as to the rich man. The humble and the poor who live upon a sea shore can sit down in the sands and watch the white-caps and the roaring billows of a great ocean given to them to look upon, as well as the man with millions.

All of the greatest things in the world that give man happiness and joy are not denied the poor. The rich may live in palaces and the poor in shacks but the poor man is not in danger of having his child kidnapped, while the rich live in constant dread of it. The rich man was clothed in purple and fine linen and fared sumptuously every day, while Lazarus laid at his gate and prayed for the crumbs that fell from his table, but Lazarus was the better off of the two as far as eternality was concerned. Yes, there are many things that man cannot buy and these things which man cannot buy are the things which are the greatest blessings and the greatest joys of life.—Elizabethtown News.

The roads are getting better, the cars can easily run. Subscribe for the Courier, and read about the fun.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

I have read a great many books but I make no claim to scholarship. However, it has been my privilege to come in touch with outstanding leaders in all walks of life. I have had the most delightful associations with preachers. The rank and file of the preachers of this nation are true-blue, self-sacrificing men. I am for them.

I have known rather intimately most of the evangelists and leading preachers of America. Dr. J. Wilbur Chapman and Dr. R. A. Torrey were both close personal friends of mine. I know Billy Sunday well. He's a most lovable man. Paul Rader of Chicago is one of the most dynamic and fascinating men I know.

George R. Stuart, who for a number of years was connected with the old Centenary College at Cleveland, Tennessee, where the Bob Jones College is now located, and whose body rests on a hilltop near Cleveland, was a unique, gifted, attractive, entertaining personality. He was a man of uncompromising convictions. In the old days, he was one of the most popular Chattanooga lecturers and prohibition lecturers in the nation.

"Dr. Stuart, who is the most brilliant man you have ever known?" I inquired one day. George Stuart hesitated a moment. "Bob, Sam Small has the most wonderful mind of any man I have ever known. He hasn't an equal in straight unadulterated brain power in this country." That was Dr. Stuart's reply.

Later, I came to know Sam Small. He visited me in my home. Several years ago, just a few weeks before we opened the Bob Jones College, Dr. Small was in my study. He was talking to me about outstanding men in the political, religious, and business world. "Brother Small, I have tried to find somebody who could write an orthodox creed for our college. I want a creed which covers the fundamentals of Christian faith and I want it so worded that it will not give offense to any Christian of any orthodox denomination. I am unable to find any one who can write that creed. I can't write it. Can you write it for me?" Dr. Small hesitated a moment and then said, "That ought to be easy." He took an envelope out of his pocket and wrote the second paragraph of the Bob Jones College Charter which incorporates our creed. He did it in three minutes.

It wasn't necessary to change out word or even the punctuation. As an illustration of the genius of this great man, I quote the creed below:

"The general nature and object of the corporation shall be to conduct an institution of learning for the general education of youth in the essentials of culture and in the arts and sciences, giving special emphasis to the Christian religion and the ethics revealed in the Holy Scriptures, combating all atheistic, agnostic, pagan and so-called scientific adulterations of the Gospel, unqualifiedly affirming and teaching the inspiration of the Bible (both Old and New Testaments); the creation of man by the direct act of God; the incarnation and virgin birth of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ; His identification as the Son of God; His vicarious atonement for the sins of mankind by the shedding of His blood on the cross; the resurrection of His body from the tomb; His power to save men from sin; the new birth through the regeneration by the Holy Spirit, and the gift of eternal life by the grace of God. This charter shall never be amended, modified, altered or changed as to the provisions hereinbefore set forth."

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary Meeting was entertained Thursday afternoon, July 6, 1933, at the Cole Hotel by Mrs. Henry Cole and Mrs. Ada Cochran. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. C. K. Stacy, and opened by prayer. After a short business meeting, the president called for the program, which was as follows:

Song—America.
Patriotic Worship Service—Mrs. C. K. Stacy, Mrs. H. C. Rose Jr., Mrs. Henry Cole, Mrs. C. E. Gabbard, and Mrs. D. R. Keeton.

Dialogue, IV Scenes.—The Simple Mrs. Lafferty by Mrs. W. A. Caskey and Mrs. Brong. Mr. Lafferty's first lectures was on "The Common Man, His Rights and Privileges; his second "Prohibition, Its Disreputable History and Debauching Future; his third, "Prohibition and the Larger Freedom"—not freedom to speed recklessly thru traffic lights, the freedom to blight the lives of children, the freedom to drink as much as you like; but the larger freedom that makes room for all of God's children, the freedom that helps each one to be his best. "One is your Father and all ye are brethren."

Those present were: Mesdames Henry Cole, Ed Cochran, C. E. Gabbard, W. A. Caskey, F. S. Brong, H. S. Trayner, D. R. Keeton, C. K. Stacy, Earl Price, H. C. Rose Jr., I. J. Scudder and Rev. Scudder.

The hostess served delicious home made ice cream and angel food cake.
